

8th October 2010

The Editor
Letters Page
The Daily Telegraph

Dear Sir

I was sorry to read the attack on Mohammed Aziz written by Douglas Murray and published on your website today as I do not believe it either reflects the true worth of the work of Mr Aziz or the usual high standards of your journalism. Anyone who receives public money must of course be held to account for the work that they do, but it undermines that process to sneer at the work of someone who is moderate, thoughtful and very well respected for working diligently and constructively to bridge the gap between Muslims and other Britons.

Modern diverse Britain needs Muslims who work hard on inter-community dialogue, and those that do deserve better from the Telegraph.

Yours faithfully

Robin Allen QC
Head of Chambers